SEVENTY-ONE CANDIDATES SO FAR.

Withdraws in Tazewell-Two New Candidates .- Political Notes.

So far as has been reported at Demo cratic headquarters, there are sixty-two candidates opposing Democratic nominees for the House of Delegates, and nine candidates opposing Democratic nominees for the State Senate.

The majority of the opposing candidates are Independents, but there are a number of Republicans and some Populists among them. There is a Republican candidate for the State Senate in the field in the Floyd and Franklin District; one against Hon, D. Gardiner Tyler, in the Newport News District, and Judge Shelor, a Republican, is a candidate against Mr. E. L. Harvey (Democrat), in the Grayson and Patrick districts.

MR. SMYTHE WITHDRAWS.

Mr. H. M. Smythe, of Tazewell county, informed a Dispatch writer at New Ford's last night that he would not make the race as an Independent candidate for the Legislature from Tazewell

'I consented to become a candidate be-cause I was assured of the support of Democrats and Republicans," he said. "I was doubtful of a Democrat's being elected without Republican votes, and I wanted to see Tazewell have a Democrat in the Legislature. I did not expect a Democratic nomination to be made. Demograts saw differently, a Democratic convention was held, and Mr. Joseph Moss was nominated. He is an excellent man. You will find that Mr. Moss will make a fine representative. I get out of the race all the more willingly because of the fact that he is deeply interested in securing better roads for Tazewell, and I believe he will introduce a good road law for the county."

Mr. Smythe expressed regret that his business affairs were such that he could not get to Tazewell before the election and do some work for Mr. Moss. Mr. Seldon Cowden is a candidate for the House of Delegates in Fairfax county against Captain Joe Willard. Of course, Mr. Willard is not losing any sleep on that account, though Mr. Cowden has been a candidate for the House of Dele gates, Congress, and the presidency of The portraits of two distinguished brirade commanders in the Confederate more than ordinary interest to the veterans and friends of the camp.

Brigadier-General M. D. Corse-were gallant soldiers, and their memories are recall their brilliant deeds and to do honor

The portraits, both of which are pronounced to be speaking likenesses of the originals, occupied prominent positions on easels on the rostrum, and behind them the various speakers stood. The camp hall was crowded with an interest-ing and appreciative audience, and the speakers who presented and accepted the portraits were frequently interrupted by applause. The programme was inter-spersed with music, both vocal and in-strumental, rendered by a company of ladies and gentlemen organized for the occasion by Captain Frank W. Cunning-

The first picture presented was that of General Chambliss. Hon, D. C. Richard-son presided over the camp and presented Colonel John E. Laughton, chairman of the Portrait Gallery Committee, who in turn called upon Captain John Lamb to introduce Hon. Peter F. Weaver, of The Congressman paid a high tribute to Mr. Weaver, and alluded in eloquent terms to General Chambliss,

GENERAL CHAMBLISS'S DEATH. Mr. Weaver, ascending to the rostrum

Mr. Weaver, ascending to the rostrum, expressed his thanks for the kind words spoken of himself, and paid an affectionate tribute to the distinguished hero. He told of his intimacy with General Chambliss, and asserted that he was the last person to see the Confederate leader alive. General Chambliss lost his life on the Charles City road, not far from Richmend, and Mr. Weaver gave a graphic description of his end. The enemy, the speaker said, were upon Chambilss, and he was unmindful of his danger. Mr. Weaver informed him of his danger, but be declined to street, and calmin issued. he declined to retreat, and calmly issue in order, which the speaker started to execute, when a volley from the Federal line made General Chambliss's horse riderless and rendered his wife a widow. Mr. Weaver concluded his address in a brief peroration, and Captain Lamb was called upon to read a biographical sketch of General Chambilss. When he had concluded, Mr. B. M. Parham, sergeantmajor of Lee Camp, accepted the portrait on behalf of the same. He made a short on behalf of the camp. He made a short, but most feeling, address, paying high tribute to his old commander.

After Mr. Parham's remarks Mr. Loh-man and Captain Cunningham sang as a man and Captain Cunningham sang as a duet "Calvary," and Miss Durham, for-merly of Norfolk, a violinist of marked ability, rendered a selection. Captain Cunningham then sang, "Oft in the Stilly Night."

GENERAL CORSE'S PORTRAIT After the musical programme had been concluded, the portrait of General Corse was presented by Captain Charles U. Williams, the first commander of Lee Camp and a member of General Corse's staff. and a member of General Corse's staff.
Mr. Williams spoke of his old commander in the most heartfelt terms, paying the highest tribute to his memory. As a soldler none were more gallant, the speaker said, and his character was beyond reproach. With him duty was the sublimest word in the English language, and st word in the English language, and he lived up to his convictions in every relation of life. Captain Williams was loudly applauded, and Colonel Arthur Herbert, of Alexandria, accepted the portrait on behalf of the camp. He gave a graphic account of the camp. He gave a graphic account of the incidents of Pawnee Sunday, traced the progress of southern arms, and told of the loyalty of southern women. He then told of the gallant part General Corse took in the struggle of the Confederacy, and eulogized him in the highest

RIVERS AND HARBORS

ESTIMATES FOR WORK ALREADY AUTHORIZED AND PROPOSED.

IMPROVEMENT OF JAMES, $400,000.

Norfolk Harbor $56,774-Seacoast Deganization-Defence of Porto Rico. Henolulu, and Pearl Harbor.

WASHINGTON, October 26.-The anual report of the Chief of Engineers of the army, Brigadier-General John M. Wilson, made public to-day, submits estimates for river and harbor works aiready authorized by Congress, but not provided for by continuing contracts, amounting to $25,906,821. In addition, he asks for $15,582,-626 to carry on work already contracted

The report shows that the existing aproved projects for sea-coast defence conemplate the emplacement of about 500 leavy guns, of 8-, 10-, 12-, and 15-inch alibre, of about 800 rapid-fire guns, and of about 1,000 mortars at an estimated apeximate cost for the engineering work $55,000,000. An estimate of $4,500,000 is mitted for continuing the work of contruction of these batteries, and for the lefence of Porto Rico. The sum of $5,685,-00 was allotted by the President out the national-defence fund for all of the ngineering department

FORTIFICATIONS. Under the head of fortifications, Genral Wilson says that in addition to thirty localities in the United States in which projects for permanent sea-cobatteries have been adopted, the defenc of several other localities is now under onsideration. Considerable study has een given to the question of the defence of our insular possessions, arising in pro-jects for San Juan and preliminary proects for Honolulu and Pearl Harbor, s. hat the construction of batterle hese places can begin as soon as Congress appropriates the funds.

There has been a considerable revision of existing projects for other points, caused by the development of the rapid fire gun, and further revisions will be re-

Work on seaconst defences has been calities, nearly all of which are even now so supplied with heavy guns and mortars as to permit of effective defence against rmament, General Wilson says, is now been delay in securing these guns in the past year, owing to difficulties with con-tractors. The temporary batteries constructed during the war with Spain have een abandoned, where erected on private and. Up to date, provision has been made for emplacing 297 heavy guns, rapid-fire guns, and 344 mortars. This armament is disposed at seventy-seven localities in thirty harbors, ARTILLERY FORCE INADEQUATE.

During the year there was added to the seaccast complement eleven 12-inch guns, thirteen 10-inch guns, twenty-four 8-inch guns, twenty rapid-fire guns, and thirtytwo mortars. With this rapid growth of the coast defences, the artillery organizabeen utterly unable to cope, and the diffi-culty has been increased by the with-drawal of two regiments for foreign serrice, and by the necessity for the services of skilled electricians and mechanics to are for the complex ordnance

The work of installing dynamite bat-eries at San Francisco harbor has been completed, but at Sandy Hook provision remains to be made for the permanent protection of the guns in place. Con-tracts have been made for dynamite batteries of one gun each at Fisher's Island and Port Royal, S. C. To complete the nequisition of sites still required to carry out approved projects of coast defence, funds must be provided for one in Boston, two in Narragansett bay, one in New York harbor, and one in Port Royal Harbor, S. C. Valuable experience is said to have been gained with the torpedo system,

In general, that system fully realized all spectations, and only a few minor hanges are contemplat RIVERS AND HARBORS.

Turning to the subject of rivers and harbors, the chief of engineers expresses satisfaction at the working of the cor tract system generally. A summary of the detailed estimates recommended for river and hurbor work shows the following items of $10,000 or more: James river (Virginia), $400,000; Caps Fear river, at and below Wilmington. N. C., $250,000; Coosa river, between Rome, Ga., and the bridge, $478,000; Coosa river, between Wetumpka and the bridge, $500,000; St. John's river (Florida), Jacksopville to the ocean, $500,000; St. John's river, Orange Mills Flats, $80,000; Tombighes river, to Demopolis, Ala., $250,000; Norfolk harbor (Virginia) and approaches, $56,774; Charleston harbor (South Carolina), $250,000; Hillsbord bay (Florida), $175,600; Key West harbor and entrance, $200,000; Pensacola harbor ntrance, $200,0 Florida), $95,000.
